Condominiums OK'd at site of historic school

Members of the Westland City Council approved the rezoning of the former site of the Perrinville schoolhouse last week, along with a preliminary plan and final site plan for the land.

Planned for the 5-acre site at Farmington Road between Joy and Ann Arbor Trail is a six building, 28-unit condominium development. Construction on the new condominiums, which will back up to Edward Hines Drive, is expected to begin this summer, according to the developers..

The land formerly housed the one-room historic schoolhouse that was moved to Greenmead Historical Park in 2016, While the site is in the City of Westland border, it is in the Livonia Public Schools district which owned the property. The school district sold the land to Infinity Homes in 2017.

The final plan was approved by a 5-2 vote with council members Peter Herzberg and Mike MeDermott casting the no votes. The land was zoned as residential and required a change to allow condominiums at the site. McDermott did vote in favor of the rezoning which was approved on a 6-1 vote with Herzberg casting the only no vote.

Developers presented an artist's rendering of the proposed condominiums at the former site of the one-room Perrinville School.

29th district judge to retire in March

Court will be adjourned for Judge Laura Mack who has announced her retirement effective March 1.

Governor Jennifer Granholm appointed Mack to the judicial post at the 29th District Court in Wayne on Jan. 12, 2004 to replace Judge Carolyn Archbold, who retired at the end of 2003, leaving three years on her elected term. In a mandated election in 2004, Mack was affirmed by the voters to serve out the remainder of Archbold's term that ended in 2006. In 2006, Mack was again elected, this time to a full 6-year term and she was re-elected in 2012 and 2018.

As Mack is in the middle of her six-year term, Gov. Gretchen Whitmer will appoint her replacement.

Mack said she is planning to remain a director of Families Against Narcotics NW Wayne Chapter, the Wayne 100 Club, and the Michigan Association of Treatment Court Professionals. She will also maintain memberships in the State-sponsored Mental Health Court Advisory Committee, the Wayne County Jail Diversion project, and the Michigan Diversion Council Incompetent to Stand Trial Workgroup, the Wayne County District Judges Association and the Michigan District Judges Association. She is also willing to serve as visiting judge for local courts and will be taking over as president of

'Stranger Danger' prompts police, Ring alliance

Inkster police now have a new "eyewitness" available to help them locate those suspected of crimes in the city.

According to Inkster police, a local homeowner captured video of the vehicle involved in a 'Stranger Danger' incident earlier this month.

According to a letter sent to parents in the Wayne Westland school district, the incident took place Jan. 13 as the student was walking home from Stevenson Middle School. The student was approached by a man in an SUV near Birchwood and Division streets just off Middlebelt Road in Inkster.

> We don't get access to their user information. We don't get access to their location. All it does is send an email that says, the Inkster police department is assisting in an active investigation in your area.

Inkster police said a local homeowner captured video of the vehicle involved in the incident on a home security device.

"We were able to get video footage from a Ring video camera," Ofc. Andrea Lebo said. The vehicle is described as a dark-colored Dodge Durango. Police say a man inside the SUV approached the Stevenson Middle School student.

Lebo said the Inkster Police Department has entered into an agreement with the Ring Co., based in California. Ring has millions of internet-connected cameras installed across the country, according to the company website.

"I'm excited because this is just one more avenue to fight crime," Lebo said.

Inkster police can now request video in an area of the city where a crime has been reported.

The request, through the Neighbors app, prompts an email to the user for permission to use the video from the Ring camera.

"We don't get access to their user information," Lebo stressed. "We don't get access to their location. We don't get access to their cameras. All it does is send an email that says, the Inkster police department is assisting in an active investi-

Northville clerk prepares for March primary

A closed Presidential Primary is planned in Michigan for Tuesday, March 10, and City of Northville Clerk Dianne Massa is getting prepared.

While there is no political party registration requirement in Michigan election law, in this specific election, registered voters will need to make their ballot selection in writing before being issued a ballot (whether voting at the polls or by absent voter ballot).

The March ballot selection does not affect voting in the Aug. 4 primary, which is an open primary. At that election, voters will be issued ballots containing all political parties and their candidates, and will select one of the parties in the privacy of the voting station, according to an advisory from the City of Northville.

The written ballot selection made at the Presidential Primary does not have any bearing on how a person votes in the general election for president, set for Nov. 3.

> "The March ballot selection does not affect voting in the Aug. 4 primary, which is an open primary.

Voters can learn more about the Michigan Presidential Primary Election on the State of Michigan website.

In Northville, Absent Voter (AV) applications have been mailed to voters on the automatic application list; they are also available on the Northville city website. Registered voters who want to be on the automatic application list are asked to complete and return the form provided on the website. It is anticipated ballot mailings will begin the this week, an official noted.

Deadlines for Absent Voter ballots include: 5 p.m. Friday, March 6 which is the deadline for a voter to request an Absent Voter Ballot to be mailed by first class mail; Saturday, March 7 when the city clerk's office will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for in-person AV ballot requests. Ballots may be voted at city hall or taken home and 4 p.m. Monday, March 9, which is the deadline for registered voters to request an Absent Voter Ballot in-person at the clerk's office. Voters are not allowed to leave with the ballot on this day and must vote the ballot in person at city hall.

Suspects sought in Michigan Avenue shootout

The search continues for individuals involved in a two-car shoot-out in Inkster last week.

According to police reports, a shootout began last Wednesday night in the parking lot of the Citgo gas station at Middlebelt Road and Michigan Avenue West.

Police said that surveillance video shows that as a blue car drove out of the parking lot, a shooter in the vehicle fired on a white SUV parked at one of the gas pumps. That vehicle reportedly left the gas station lot and returned fire, although reports of the incident by witnesses varied. Other customers in the lot were reportedly ducking for cover from the gunfire.

Police officers instigated pursuit of the vehicles.

The blue car was found in a nearby neighborhood and one person arrested, according to police reports. Several guns were reportedly confiscated as the suspect was taken into custody.

Police searched the nearby neighborhood for the other individuals involved in the shooting and asked residents to stay inside as the manhunt continued.

Officers were also contacting hospitals about any possible patients seeking treatment for gunshot wounds.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to contact the Inkster Police Department at (313) 563-9850.

gation in your area. The user can either choose to ignore the request or share their video with us."

In response to privacy concerns, the Ring company issued a public statement.

"Ring's mission is to make neighborhoods safer. We work towards this mission in a number of ways, including allowing local police to share official, important crime and safety updates with their residents through the free Neighbors app. Ring has designed the Neighbors app in a way that upholds our user privacy standards and keeps residents in control. We've seen many positive examples of residents and local police engaging on the Neighbors app and believe open communication is an important step in building safer, stronger communities."

Inkster police say if users share their video they would not be asked to testify in court or provide a statement.

The letter from the school district described the suspicious person as a young African-American male with light skin and short twists in his hair. He asked the student to get into the vehicle, according to the letter from the district.

The student refused and made it home safety and the district also offered some safety recommendations for students suggesting they always try to walk with one or more other students when going to and from school, the bus stop or other destinations. Anyone with information is encouraged to call Lebo at (313) 400-5387.

Customer returns cash canister to credit union

George Condash seems to define the term "honest man"

Last week, Condash, a Westland resident, noticed a plastic container in the drive through lane near the Wayne Westland Credit Union on Wayne Road.

He said he thought that the rectangular, dark-colored box was probably trash and that somebody should pick it up so that everyone using the ATM or drive through wouldn't have to swerve around it. He stopped his car, got out and picked up the plastic cassette, only to discover that it was full of cash.

Video surveillance cameras show that Condash, 53, looked at the cassette he picked up and then without hesitation took it back inside the credit union. An outside label on the container said it contained $40,000.

Condash, a pipe fitter at Ford Motor Co., took it into the credit union building and asked if there was a reward for returning $40,000 as he put the container on the counter. There was, in fact, only $27,000 in the black plastic container.

A guard from an armored truck service left the cassette containing the cash on the driveway pavement during a pick up from the credit union about a half hour before Condash discovered it at around 2 p.m.

"It's not mine and any honest person, I would hope, would take it back in," Condash is quoted as saying.

His actions have drawn attention on social media and with television news crews who reported his actions.

Alicia Stewart of the Wayne Westland Credit Union presented Condash with a small reward as a token of appreciation for his actions in returning the cash to the cashier at the counter.

"It could've ended in a very different way for us, but Mr. Condash was very honest, and a good person to return the money, so we appreciate that very much," Stewart said.

Surveillance cameras caught the image of George Condash returning the cash canister to the credit union.

Owner of storage project offers site to city for $1

Metro Storage owner Tim Judge has offered to sell the East Michigan Avenue property where a $3 million project was planned to the City of Wayne for $1.

Wayne Economic Development Director Lori Gouin presented a project update and Judge's offer to members of the city council at their regular meeting last week.

Gouin explained that she had several conversations with Judge and had reviewed his financial records of the plan to construct a 95,000-square-foot project on the 2.3 acre parcel. Judge purchased the land from the city in 2016 for $1, although Gouin explained that his cost was actually $10,001.

She said that currently Judge is facing a loss of $256,000 on the project and has unpaid taxes from 2018 and 2019 of about $18,334. She told the council that as Judge attempted to move forward with the construction, he found that costs, particularly of steel needed for the building, had escalated beyond cost effectiveness for him. He revamped the plan, she reminded the council members, in 2017 and 2018, in attempts to make the project cost efficient, but was unable to build within acceptable costs. Gouin reiterated that Judge has spent more than $256,000 on the project to date on various fees for engineering, permits and utility installation at the site. He has put the site on the market, she said.

The land is on the site of a former radiator manufacturing plant and is considered contaminated. Council members previously approved the establishment of a Brownfield Development area for the site allowing Judge to recoup some of the costs of mediating the contamination. Gouin said he could receive about $326,000 in reimbursement for the remediation at the site, which has not been done.

Gouin reminded the council members that the city has not collected tax revenue from the site as it is in the Downtown Development Authority boundaries and that entity collects the city share of tax revenue.

She said that if Judge does not pay the taxes on the property, Wayne County will claim the site and offer it to the city for the unpaid amount. If the city refuses, it will go into the Wayne County Land Bank and county officials will attempt to market the land.

Gouin said that there had been a great deal of misinformation circulated about the project including erroneous and unflattering information about Judge and his business practices.

"Mr. Judge is very disturbed about some things that have been said," Gouin told the council "He is a very good man and he is already out $256,000 on the property."

Council members took no action on Gouin's report.

the Wayne Rotary Club in July.

Mack said she is committed to ending stigma and helping people with substance use disorders and mental illnesses stay out of the criminal justice system by securing the treatment they need. Her husband, Milt Mack, is also deeply committed to this ideal. Milt Mack is on a task force with state court administrators, chief justices and community mental health professionals throughout the country to re-write civil commitment and forensic laws to more effectively and humanely deal with people suffering from mental illness in the court systems.

Laura Mack said that her 16-years of experience as a judge has given her valuable insights into these mental illness issues, and she said she is looking forward to assisting and traveling with her husband.

Mack said she also plans to volunteer her time to help mental health courts throughout the state, including the Western Wayne County Regional Behavioral Treatment Court that she started at the 29th District Court 6 years ago. She said it is very important to her that the treatment court continues.

"I will help my successor continue the other outreach court programs, such as the Truancy Diversion Program, the Eviction Diversion Program, juvenile jurisdiction, the Teen Court program, Law Day and Constitution Day activities at local schools, and the informal internship program," she said in a prepared statement.

In her "spare" time, Mack said she is looking forward to exercising regularly and learning yoga.

Mack praised the staff at the court and said that Court Administrator Linda Gable is recognized as one of the best court administrators in the state.

"The 29th District Court has an excellent staff, with very low turnover, as well and is regarded by court users (lawyers and the public) as being prompt, courteous, fair and competent," Mack said. She said she will do everything she can to ensure that that reputation continues after her retirement.

"It's been a pleasure serving the people of Wayne for over 16 years, and I am looking forward to the next chapter," she said.

Her replacement must be a lawyer in good standing who lives in Wayne and who has at least five years of experience as a lawyer. That appointed judge would then be required to be on the ballot in 2020.

If elected in November, Mack's replacement would serve until the end of her current term, 2024.

City council chooses president pro-tem

While the upcoming presidential election in Washington D.C. remains an issue in the headlines, the balloting for a city council president pro tem in Westland is complete.

Mike Londeau, elected to his second term on the council in the November, 2019 election, garnered enough support among his fellow council members for election to the post.

Members of the council were unable to elect a president pro tem at their Jan. 6 meeting when Londeau and Councilman Peter Herzberg were in contention for the post.

Neither received enough votes to be elected when Councilwoman Tasha Green voted against both their nominations.

At the meeting last week, Londeau and Herzberg were again both nominated for the position. Councilman Jim Godbout, Councilwoman Andrea Rutkowski and Council President Jim Hart voted with Londeau, who voted for himself.

The council did not vote on Herzberg, who previously filled the president pro tem role, as the four votes gave Londeau the necessary majority.

Valentines for Veterans effort under way

As Valentine's Day approaches, U.S. Congresswoman Debbie Dingell (D-MI) invites local students to participate in the "Valentines for Veterans" project by making handmade Valentine cards for local veterans. Since 2015, students across the region created hundreds of cards to show veterans how much they are loved and appreciated. This is the sixth year that Dingell has organized the "Valentines for Veterans" project.

"A gesture as small as a handmade card can mean so much to the men and women who served our country," said Dingell. "For Valentine's Day, I invite all students to join us in showing our veterans how much we appreciate their service and sacrifices. Our veterans have done so much to protect our country and the freedoms we enjoy every day."

The cards will be delivered on Valentine's Day by Dingell to both the John D. Dingell VA Medical Center and the Ann Arbor VA.

Those who wish to participate may drop off artwork at Dingell's Michigan offices through Wednesday, Feb. 12, or call the Dearborn office at (313) 278-2936 to arrange for pickup. The Dearborn office is located at 19855 West Outer Dr., Suite 103-E, Dearborn, MI 48124. The Ypsilanti office is at 301 West Michigan Ave., Suite 400, Ypsilanti.

Donations to fund new run at animal shelter

While members of the Romulus City Council recently approved the installation of a $13,000 dog run at the Romulus Animal Shelter, the cost will not be paid by taxpayers.

The cost for the new amenity described as "needed" at the facility "is not an expense being put on taxpayers" commented Mayor LeRoy Burcroff during the Jan. 13 regular council meeting.

Councilman William Wadsworth, who has been a driving force behind the efforts at the shelter, said that the funding for the new run is from donations and fundraisers organized in the community.

"This enhances the facility and we thank you if you gave," Burcroff said. The funding from the donations is "very helpful" Burcroff added.

The budget amount was unanimously approved by members of the council.

Van Buren school board members elect officers

Members of the Van Buren Public Schools Board of Education unanimously selected Amy Pearce to serve as the president of the group during their regular meeting earlier this month.

Voters chose Pearce to serve in her first elected office on the board about a year ago.

She was nominated for the leadership position by former board president Keith Johnston who declined to seek reelection to the post saying it was time for new leadership.

Susan Featheringill will again serve as vice president, Darlene Loyer Gerick will serve another term as secretary and Simone Pinter will return to the position of secretary of the board. In addition, the board members accepted reappointments to committees on which they served last year including Pinter, Johnston and Gerick on the facilities committee; Featheringill, Pinter and Pearce to the finance committee; Johnston, Kelly Owen and Pinter to the health advisory committee; Featheringill, Pearce and Calvin Hawkins to the policy committee and Gerick, Owen and Hawkins to the school improvement committee.

In celebration of January as School Board Member Recognition Month, there were refreshments at the meeting and the board members were presented with certificates of appreciation from the Michigan Association of School Boards along with bags of gifts from the local school district.

The certificates and gifts were presented to the board members by Superintendent of Schools Pete Kudlak who thanked them for their service to the district.

CANTON - PLYMOUTH

Township clerk seeking election poll workers

Plymouth Township Clerk Jerry Vorva is already making preparations for what clerk's anticipate will be huge voter turnouts the 2020 elections.

Vorva said his office also anticipates a much larger absentee voter turnout due to the new changes in the law which allow for "no reason" absentee voting.

Workers for the election are currently being recruited to meet the increased voter turnout. Vorva said the team is looking for individuals with leadership and/or computer skills and a desire to be a part of the 2020 election process. The pay is set at $18 to $25 per hour depending on the assignment. For further information, contact Vorva at (734) 354-3224, or Paula Jefferson at (734) 354-3229.

The new absentee ballot laws allow residents to be placed on a Permanent Absent Voter List which means the clerk's office will always send an application to vote before every election.

Anyone who wishes to utilize absentee voting is required to complete and sign an application for each election in which they choose to vote using an absentee ballot. After the signed applications are received by the office of the clerk, the application will be processed and absentee ballots mailed.

> If you would like to be added to the permanent AV list, we have forms that can be completed at the clerk's office.

"We do not automatically send out ballots. You must complete an application and sign it in order for us to process your request and this applies to each election. If you would like to be added to the permanent AV list, we have forms that can be completed at the clerk's office," Vorva stressed in a prepared statement.

Plymouth Township has relocated all Precinct #03 voters from Plymouth Township Hall as a polling place to Allen Early Learning Center (formerly known as Allen Elementary School). Likewise, all voters assigned to Precinct #09 at Living Word Church to Northridge Church. There is another precinct at Northridge Church as well. None of the precinct boundaries have changed, just the voting location, officials said.

Elections dates in 2020 include March 10 for the Presidential Primary; Aug. 4, for the Primary Election which includes local offices and the Nov. 3 General Election.

For more information, contact Vorva or Jefferson at the numbers listed above.

Canton property ordered demolished

Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Members of the Canton Township Board of Trustees voted unanimously Jan. 14 to give the owner of the property at 870 Lotz Road 28 days to demolish the structure.

Two neighboring properties also owned by Jeanne and Willie Wyatt of Detroit in Canton Township will come before the Canton Board of Trustees in coming months for action, officials said.

Canton Public Safety Director Joshua Meier noted at the meeting his concern was the property being secured, as well as possible squatters. Kristin Kolb, corporation counsel for Canton, noted the 870 Lotz property has deteriorated over considerable time, agreeing with the township building official, who also spoke to the board briefly on his findings at the property.

Prior to the unanimous vote, attorney David Nykanen spoke for the Wyatts.

In other township business, the property at 44112 Yost was also unanimously OK'd for demolition that evening and a contract awarded for that work.
